Imagine if you could perceive the vibrational essences underlying all that exists. Through the science of Cymatics, you can do just that!

See sound animate water, sand and powders into life-like flowing forms and geometric patterns, found throughout nature and the world's great artistic and architectural traditions.

Observe patterns and processes that correlate, not only with the laws of physics, but to universal principles which are constantly at play in our daily lives.

Explore how these very same principles operate within our own consciousness, so that we may harmonize with the innate wisdom of our Soul, and begin to move once again in grace and beauty amidst this wonderful dance of creation.
